Releasing Baby Turtle

Kemaman, Terengganu Darul Iman.

After a female turtle lays her eggs on land, she returns to the sea and leaves the eggs to develop on their own in the nest. When the incubation period ends, the hatchlings break out of the eggs and stay in the nest for several days before making their way to the water.

They face many predators and obstacles during this journey, and it is estimated that only one out of one thousand hatchlings survive to adulthood.

The tour guide organizes Releasing Baby Turtle at the beach near Cherating at 5.30 pm daily and available during the turtle season only. The hatchling stocks may subject to availability.

Kapas Island

Pulau Kapas

Pahang Darul Makmur.

Kapas Island is one of the most beautiful and relaxing places you will ever visit. It is truly an island paradise that has a strange power to keep you there longer than you planned on staying. It is a very minimalistic island, which is what make it so special. The beach is amazing, the water is perfect, and you'll be left speechless when you first arrive.

Kapas is the Malay word for cotton and it refers to the pure white sandy beaches at Kapas Island. The turquoise seas hereabouts contain plenty of rocks, some patches of coral and a couple of shipwrecks. Snorkelling and diving are popular pursuits apart at Kapas Island.

Kuantan

Pahang Darul Makmur.

Kuantan, the state capital, is located on the east coast and facing the South China Sea. It is developing fast into a modern commercial centre, yet retaining its unique old age charms. Currently, modern high-rise structures coexist harmoniously with pre-war shophouses and colonial buildings.

Kuantan is vibrant, clean and punctuated by lush greenery that gives the town a refreshing countryside atmosphere. Food is easily available as there are many restaurants and open-air food stalls selling local culinary delights. Its nightlife is an affair of colorfully decorated stalls selling anything from handicraft to costume jewelry and farm produce.
